Right now, only one company offers Africa river cruise journeys, and that's AmaWaterways. That's changing at the end of 2017, however, when CroisiEurope enters the scene. See CroisiEurope's To Offer Africa Cruise Tours

Itineraries for both companies run between 10 and 19 days in duration and explore Botswana, South Africa, Tanzania and Zimbabwe.

AmaWaterways' actual cruise portion of the trip – held aboard the intimate, 28-guest Zambezi Queen – is rather short, at only four days in length. Still, these itineraries combine an Africa river cruise along the Chobe River with a much larger, comprehensive land tour that includes multiple safari tours, evenings spent in luxury safari lodges, and stops in two of South Africa's biggest cities, Johannesburg and Cape Town.

Operating Period: April – November
