Travel deal: South African trip for wine and art lovers

Tribune News Service

October 23, 2016

The deal: Luxury travel provider Extraordinary Journeys is planning an eight-night “Art of Travel” itinerary to Cape Town, South Africa. Coinciding with the Fifth Annual Cape Town Art Fair, which presents contemporary Pan-African and international art, the trip is divided into four nights in the Ellerman House, home to one of the country’s most important private art collections, and four nights in the Delaire Graff Estate in the Cape Winelands, which is surrounded by galleries and vineyards. South African art expert Talita Swarts will accompany travelers. Guests also have the option of adding on a five-day safari.

Cost: $8,600 per person, based on double occupancy

What’s included: Luxury accommodations; meals; hotel and lodge taxes; transfers and sightseeing excursions such as the Cape Town Art Fair, a city tour of Cape Town (including a trip to Table Mountain and Robben’s Island), a full-day tour of the Cape Peninsula and of the Winelands region

When: Dates are customizable, though guests who want their visit to coincide with the Cape Town Art Fair should choose to travel from Feb. 17 to 19.
