Finnair has produced a new commercial – a 30-second version and a more expansive, heart-melting 90-second version – called “Find Your Way To Christmas.”

Uh, yeah, it’s just as emotional as the title suggests.

Two weeks ago, just as the Thanksgiving holiday came up, we told you about a video produced by Heathrow International Airport in London. The 70-second spot was for Christmas and featured two elderly teddy bears making their way through the airport in an effort to visit family.

Well, get ready for another one, and just try to defy that misty feeling you’re about to get where you can’t prevent the waterworks from starting.

The commercial features various vignettes of people trying to connect with family, friends and loved ones and find their way to their Christmas spirit through the simple enjoyment of spending time together.
