MONTREAL - Here is this week's roundup of travel deals.

India wildlife tour

The Geringer Global Travel company is offering a 14-day Call of the Wild India tour that it says captures the safari ideal of "dense jungles, white tigers, crackling campfires and nights in tents." The tour is priced at $3,999 U.S. per person (based on double occupancy, or pay $780 more for single occupancy). It starts in New Delhi on March 10.

Susan Geringer, an India tour specialist, and Yatish Bahuguna, an Indian wildlife guide and naturalist, will accompany guests in Delhi, Jaipur and Agra, and explore some of the country's most cherished national parks and wildlife sanctuaries in Ranthambhore, Bandhavgarh and Kanha.

There are also visits to architectural gems; palaces, mosques, tombs and monuments, including the 16th-century Amber Fort in Jaipur with its marble temple dedicated to the goddess of death, Kali.
