Honeymoon Wine Tour: A Brilliant Way to Attract Tourists to India

28 - feb - 13

India is fast becoming the favourite honeymoon destination for wine lovers from across the globe. A 14-day 'Honeymoon Wine Tour of India' organized by Geringer Global Travel is just a cherry on the top of the cake.

As the name suggests, the tour aims to combine vineyard tours and general tours in a single but damn attractive package. Whether you would like to float in a hot air balloon over the picturesque Jaipur or ride elephants while touring the Indian wine region, the tour has it all. One minute you're in Mumbai on the pachyderms, the next you are in Pune at Chateau Indage where they first produced champagne in India, the tour is nothing but magic.

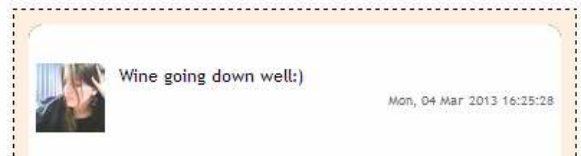

"We have created this exotic 14-day honeymoon to entice newlyweds and wine lovers to India where they will experience Indian sites and the regions' best wines," says president of Geringer Global Travel Susan Geringer. "Branching from a typical honeymoon, this itinerary offers insights to India as well as a culturally rich journey."

The Jaipur session offers creating custom garments with a tailor and experiencing the witty taste of aloo tiki, and in Delhi the spice markets are a must. Also on the tour is a stop at Fratelli Wines Private Limited, also in Pune, which is home to 58 tanks of different wines.

A great combo of culinary and oenophilic experience, the 'Honeymoon Wine Tour' promises to be a hit in near future.
