A Bevy of Barbies

It's all Barbie, all the time. A new museum in downtown Montreal, Barbie Expo, claims to be home to the largest permanent exhibit of Barbie dolls in the world. There are over 1,000 on display, and each is a one-of-a-kind creation. Some of the dolls are dressed by famous fashion houses such as Christian Dior, Giorgio Armani and Carolina Herrera, while others are made to model famous movie characters like Sandy from "Grease" as well as real-life personalities like Beyoncé and Elizabeth Taylor. Admission is free.
