"Leonard Cohen: A Crack in Everything", Montreal Museum of Contemporary Art

The famed Canadian singer and songwriter, who is perhaps best known for his haunting rendition of "Hallelujah," passed away in 2016. However, the Montreal Museum of Contemporary Art began planning "A Crack in Everything" — a comprehensive, multidisciplinary exhibit that goes beyond showcasing his legacy — while he was still alive and with his approval. The final product not only incorporates archival footage of his work, but it also incorporates the work of artists around the world (from film to performance art) who were inspired by Cohen's darkly beautiful genius. It's available through April 9, 2018.
