

LIFE

These 9 new luxury hotels have intro rates for $176 a night and under right now

Jimmy Im | @Realjimmyim | 12:20 PM ET Fri, 20 July 2018

Michael Condran
Michael Condran | Skylark

Hotels can cost a lot over summer, and rates get higher every year. Fortunately, new hotels are known to offer introductory rates to get travelers booking, and those in off-season destinations (like New Orleans in summer) can be a bargain.

These nine new luxury hotels have opened throughout North America, the Caribbean and Africa, and they are a steal with limited-time rates $176 and under a night.

Monville Hotel, Montreal, Canada

hotelmonville
Hôtel Monville

View Profile

View More on Instagram

38 likes

hotelmonville Quoi de mieux pour la fête des pères que de lui offrir une petite escapade repos, accompagnée d'un de nos délicieux cocktails maison. C'est bien la moindre des choses après tout ce qu'il a fait pour vous ;) . What better way to celebrate Father's Day than to offer him a relaxing getaway, accompanied by one of our delicious home-made cocktails. This is the least of all things he did for you ;) . . . #HotelMonville #MonvilleMontreal

Located steps from famous attraction Palais des Congres and close to Old Montreal, Hotel Monville is Canada's first and only hotel to provide room service using an autonomous delivery robot, which brings your order directly to your door. The stylish hotel embraces local purveyors by dressing its staff in uniforms by Frank and Oak and using 100 percent, all natural local bath products and local artwork. The guestrooms are modern and sleek with floor-to-ceiling windows.

While the hotel opened in March, it's still offering introductory rates at $144 a night. Rates go up to approximately $178 starting September 1.