In the waning weeks of summer, you can finally comfortably relax outside. It also means it's time to plan a trip to one of the best fall travel destinations. Whether you plan to travel during fall break or prefer to do it when families are back in school, fall is one of the most relaxing and cozy times to go sightseeing.

Autumn by Grasmere Lake, located within the English Lake District National Park.

Whether you're passing through or simply want to enjoy the cooler temperatures and the smaller crowds, you will enjoy these 6 destinations.

Montreal, Québec, Canada

There is almost never a bad time to visit Montreal, but the fall is probably the best time to visit this Canadian gem. You can't miss the stunning views of Mount Royal Park, conveniently located on a hill in the center of the city. The Montreal Botanical Gardens are also ideal for fall visitors and well worth the price of admission during these months. You will see the best fall colors between mid-September and early November.
