9 of the World's Most Romantic Winter Wonderlands

6 / 10

Canada

One of the most romantic destinations on Earth is unquestionably Québec, Canada. Our vote for most charming place in this French-Canadian province goes to Québec City; its Historic District is so historic that it's actually a UNESCO World Heritage site. Wander cobblestone streets past centuries-old buildings, boutiques, and bistros all covered in snow. For an opulent splurge, check into the Fairmont Le Château Frontenac (or simply enjoy its views of the St. Lawrence River over wine and cheese at 1608). A second Québécois city that's made for winter romance is Montreal. Relax with a spa day at Bota Bota, which floats atop the river in a converted ferryboat. If your idea of a winter wonderland is more outdoors than urban, you'll want to head west to Banff National Park. Explore frozen waterfalls on Johnston Canyon ice walk; hit the ground running behind a dog sled; try your toes at a triple Salchow atop Lake Louise; or strap in for unbeatable aerial views with a heli-snowshoe tour. After adventuring, unwind with a couples' massage or a soak in Banff Hot Springs—an experience that's undeniably romantic no matter where you are in the world.
