

Like 34

Embedded Into Finnair's Flight Safety School

by Josh Wolff (RSS feed) on Aug 30th 2012 at 1:00PM

Safety is top priority for airlines around the world, and each crew member goes through weeks of recurrent training to prepare for emergencies. They do it in a flight training center, where situations such as fires, bail outs and all sorts of other crises can be simulated and practiced.

At Finnair, this place is called the Flight Academy, a sprawling complex on the outskirts of Helsinki airport. Gadling Labs stopped by to get a taste of the action, and left amazed and humbled by the great work underway. Take a look.

Filed under: Europe, Finland, Airlines, Airports

NORWEGIANS SNAP AND PACK.

Take your best shot and win a cruise to The Caribbean on one of seven Norwegian ships.

Find out how, now. CLICK HERE

GADLING FEATURES

MOST POPULAR

Strange Festivals From Around The World

Two Travelers Are Making Their Way Around The World ... In A Tuk Tuk?

Bear Grylls Launches A Camp For Thrill Seekers

SpaceX Mission Viewing Available Live